

The OBSERVATORY for LLL Development (ODIP) is a non-governmental and non-profit association that carries on research, evaluation, training, consultancy and expertise activities in the domain of promotion and development of permanent learning, at both a national and international level.

ODIP puts to good use the experience that its members have accumulated through various research and development, training and assessment projects with national and international organisations (European Training Foundation, UNICEF, European Council, European Economic and Social Committee). The relevant expertise within current application of ODIP researchers, independent/free-lance experts and university professors is related to the activities focused on role of higher education institutions to regional development, innovative policies for learning cities and transnational assessment methodologies and tools in the area of quality assurance.